MONTENEGRO

LAND OF WINE

One has wondered for centuries: who was the first to plant the vine on the territory of Montenegro? The ancient Greeks, Romans, Slavs or those who had maybe lived here for all times, assimilating in the sea of time with our Slavic ancestors?

We may never find it out, but perhaps, it is not so much important, for it was for thousands of years back that the vine has grown, making the wine telling the story about its homeland: "This is Montenegro, the land of wine!" It is confirmed by the fact that the amphorae on the sunken ships were found in 2009 which carried the wine from the period I-III century AD.

Montenegro is the birthplace of Vranac, black as the horse of the same name-the metaphor of powerful and noble wine. The new age has begun for the Montenegrin wine since the 19th century, when the Montenegrin king Nikola Petrović gave his support to development of the vine in Montenegro by the Decree: "Each soldier, coming from the place where the vine may grow, must plant 200 vines". And, as soon as 1907, Montenegrin Vranac won the first prize at the International Wine Fair in London.

Since the second half of XX century, the company 13.jul-Plantaže has been the leader of the viticulture in Montenegro. It is the company Plantaže which devoted even 2/3 of its vineyards to Vranac and introduced this great variety to the world stage. Nowadays, Vranac is the national pride and metaphor of Montenegro, of a small country - of great wines and Plantaže is the main symbol of modern Montenegrin viticulture and wine making.
